

Why should I hire a CPA to prepare my taxes?

An accountant will prepare your income tax returns using data you provide. While you are ultimately responsible for providing the correct numbers for the tax calculations, your CPA can alert you of any red flags which could trigger an audit. You can speak with them directly regarding any deductions that you might be considering.

An accountant will be aware of obscure tax rules and the latest deductions so you can take advantage of all of the tax breaks that could save you money and you don't have to lift a finger. A good accountant will look at your situation and suggest ways to save on taxes now and in the future. Enlisting the services of an accountant will help ensure that everything is being taken care of correctly with no worrying on your part.

The major advantage is that you are having an experienced professional assist you. In order to become a CPA you have to meet education and experience requirements. Tax CPA's prepare tax returns for a living and know what to look for and how to take advantage of tax breaks that most people do not even know exist.
